

“The progress from an absolute to a limited monarchy, from a limited monarchy to a democracy, is a progress toward a true respect for the individual.”

-Henry David Thoreau, “Civil Disobedience”

Register Now!

Fall 2015

Semester begins

August 24th

www.mpc.edu

ENGLISH 9

Great Books and Civil Liberties

Many of the assumptions by which Western democracies conduct their civic lives derive from classic texts, both fiction and non-fiction.

This course discusses some of those works with readings and viewings that include Locke, Mill, Rousseau, Orwell, Tocqueville, Thoreau, King, Hanson, Harlan Ellison, Kurt Vonnegut, Ray Bradbury, Greg Lukianoff, and more.

Course Offered Online:

ENGL 9: Great Books and Civil Liberties

Semester: Fall 2015 Section # 0733

For more Information Contact:

David Clemens
(831) 646-4267

dclemens@mpc.edu