LGBTQ on Campus for Students is a 30-minute online, interactive training simulation that assists institutions of higher education in creating a safe and supportive campus community by 1) increasing awareness and empathy for the challenges faced by LGBTQ students, and 2) building the skills of students to connect and communicate with respect.

Course information: LGBTQ on Campus for Students is a 30-minute online, interactive learning experience that assists institutions of higher education in creating a safe and supportive campus community by increasing awareness and empathy for the challenges faced by LGBTQ students and building the skills of students to:

- address discriminatory language;
- respond supportively when a peer comes out as LGBTQ
- approach and refer a peer who may be distressed and need additional support.

To Get Started:

1. Begin at ccc.kognito.com
2. Create an account when prompted: "Don't have an account? Click here."
3. Enter your information and under Choose your Training POV and select Student/RA
4. After creating an account click on LGBTQ on Campus for Students to begin the training. If you have time, feel free to complete the other two trainings as well.

Online training courses are made available to all California community colleges through the CCC Student Mental Health Program, a partnership between the Chancellor's Office and the Foundation for California Community Colleges (FCCC) funded through a grant from the California Mental Health Services Authority (CalMHSA).